ABSTRACT

[0053]   An object generator includes an object factory and a pool of object proxies. The object factory forwards indicia of a desired object responsive to a system need. The object factory polls a plurality of object proxies for a respective confidence level responsive to the indicia and the object proxy's capability for producing the desired object.